

WEDNESDAY 26 APRIL, 2017

“HAVING A VOICE”

The Wonders of Trove & How to Access it

Come join PMDFHS members explore the wonders of Trove - The Voice of Newspapers of yesteryear.

Finding information just got easier – thanks to Trove, a revolutionary new free search engine created by the National Library of Australia. With just one click at trove.nla.gov.au users, like never before, can access a wealth of resources - across more than 90 million items in one go - about Australia and Australians.

Trove’s content, much of which is digital, comes from more than 1000 libraries around Australia as well as other cultural and educational institutions and international collections with relevance to Australia.

Trove takes users straight to the source – not just to a list of websites – and allows them to search across pictures, unpublished manuscripts, books, oral histories, music, videos, research papers, diaries, letters, maps, archived websites and Australian newspapers from 1803 to 1954.

<https://www.nla.gov.au/media-releases/trove-a-revolutionary-new-free-search-engine>

P MDFHS is pleased to present

---

TROVE

---

National Library of Australia’s online cache of newspapers

---

Port Macquarie Library

10am – 12.30pm

26 April 2017

---

FREE

Heritage Week Event

---

PORT MACQUARIE &
DISTRICTS FAMILY HISTORY SOCIETY

Bookings 0475 132 804

---